A Polander Robbed.

A Polish resident of the Eighth ward yesterday complained to Officer Joe Fahy that the night before he was stopped on Twenty-eighth street by five men and robbed of $10, an umbrella, his hat and a notebook. The umbrella, notebook and hat were found not far away yesterday morning, but there is no clue to the robbers.

A Young Vag.

Low Baker, a colored boy who claimed to be employed by a Martin's Ferry physician, was arrested by Officer Creighton yesterday afternoon on a charge of vagrancy. He had in his pockets a dilapidated revolver, a broken penknife and a bunch of keys on a chain with a railroad tab attached. They apparently belong to a railroad attache at Pittsburgh.

A Painful Fall.

George Caultbaugh, of the South Side, met with a very painful, though not serious, accident yesterday afternoon. While repairing a summer kitchen in the rear of Mrs. Hays's saloon, on Forty-second street, he slipped and fell about fifteen feet, alighting on top of a paling fence, which penetrated his left leg just below the thigh, making a horrible cut about four inches deep and about one inch wide. He was carried to his home, where he will be confined for some time on account of the injury.

Only a Slight Fire.

The alarm of fire last night was somewhat mixed as the public caught it, but in the department houses it was straight enough for all to respond and run to box 9, at the North Wheeling pottery. The blaze was found to be still still further up street, in the house of Jacky Jones, just below the Top mill, where a lamp had upset and started a lively fire. It was put out with a few buckets of water.

Jones was arrested later in the evening by Officer Scully for beating his wife. The lamp that caused the blaze was upset by him.

In the Circuit Court.

In Part I of the circuit court yesterday morning, Judge Campbell on the bench, in the case of Elizabeth Kull and husband vs. Joseph Speidel and others, John Speidel, one of the defendants, asked that the case be redocketed and that E. V. Gruse, infant daughter of Emma Gruse, be made a party to the cause, and John Walton was appointed guardian ad litem of such infant.

In the case of the city vs. George Magers, keeping a house used for gambling purposes, who was fined $20 and costs in police court and appealed, the fine was reduced to $15 and costs.

In the cases of George Bennett, Robert Miller, Thomas Jackson, William Winder, Jr., and Jacob Soles, who were fined $1.50 in police court, the fines were reduced to $5 and costs.

In the matter of the petition of S. B. Arnold, asking permission to adopt Minnie Barting, a minor child, the prayer of the petitioner was granted.

In the case of James H. Oldham vs. George Miller et al., a decree was entered settling the special commissioner's account and ascertaining two subsequent claims entered.

In the case of Hugh McGraw and wife vs. Robert McGraw's administrator, a decree was entered appointing James P. Rogers trustee.

A VERY NASTY CASE

Heard by Squire Rogers last night. Parents Required to Give Bond to Keep the Peace Toward their Daughter.

Charles Howard and his wife, of North Main street, were arraigned before Squire W. W. Rogers last evening, on complaint of their daughter, Luella, who said they had threatened to kill her and that she feared they would do her bodily harm. The testimony was much of it unfit to print. The girl left her home last Sunday, and her father had the police hunting for her in houses of ill fame. It turned out that she had obtained employment as a domestic with a South Side family.

Mrs. Howard was said by witnesses last night to have declared that if they got the girl back they would chain her to the floor and beat her to death. The girl herself said her father had stood over her with a knife as she lay in bed and threatened to cut her throat. Other witnesses said both Howard and his wife swore at the girl and called her habitually names not repeatable in print, and, besides, allowed her younger brothers and sisters to do the same.

It was also testified that prostitutes visited the Howard house, and Mrs. Howard frequently "rushed the growler" for beer, and that whisky was often drunk there.

The defense was that the girl was a bad girl. Of course it would be remarkable if she were bad amid such surroundings. She had sinned, and when asked to name the author of her ruin she named a special friend of her father's. In this connection, also, a horrible thing was told of her father. Altogether the testimony was the nastiest heard in a Wheeling court for a long time. The girl and other witnesses testified that she was badly clothed, sworn at and abused.

Squire Rogers reserved his decision, but later in the evening he told a reporter that he would require Howard and his wife to give bonds to keep the peace.

It is said Howard will appeal the case. Captain Dovenor appeared for him and his wife, while the girl had no lawyer.

MANY OFFENDERS FINED.

But the Docket Does Not Afford a Great Deal of Interest.

There were fourteen cases in the police court yesterday morning, and the mayor fined all of them, but four of the fines were afterward suspended. Ed Moore paid $10 and costs for disorder at Nellie White's house. James Fountain put up $2 and costs for bad conduct in the second ward. Frank Bole and Tom Moorehouse, of Pittsburgh, paid $5 and costs each for fighting. "Doc" Bellville, from over the river, who was found very drunk on private premises in East Wheeling, was allowed to go on promising not to drink for a year. Tom Calvert paid $1 and costs for a plain drunk. Frank O'Brien and Bob Davis went to the jail for thirty days each, and James Shay forty-five days, he having resisted Officer Trueschler, who clubbed him into subjection. The three are vicious looking tramps. Tom Conners, a drunk, went up for fifteen days. James Clark and his son John, up as vagrants, were allowed to go, and Judy Mack, a plain drunk, was released on promising to leave the city and not return for six months.

ROLAND REED'S PLAYS.

He Presents "Lend me Your Wife" to a Large Audience.

At the Opera House last night Mr. Roland Reed and one of the best comedy companies seen here for many a day, appeared before a crowded house in "Lend me Your Wife." It was an in-clement night, and the presence of so large and so refined an audience was certainly a high compliment.

The piece is exceedingly funny, and Mr. Reed's role the best he ever appeared in here. He is natural and irresistible in the part. Messrs. Nash and Roberts were rarely strong in the next most important male characters. Miss Isadore Rush is a lovely woman and a charming actress, and the other ladies, and indeed all the cast, were above the average, the baby bearing no mean part of the performance.

Mr. Reed was several times called before the curtain, and after the second act he made a speech which convulsed the audience only less than the funny situations of the play.

The same comedy will be given at the matinee this afternoon, and this evening the successful comedy, "The Club Friend," which Mr. Reed has pronounced the best play he ever gave, will be produced with the following cast:

Perceval Jarvis, M. D., a fashionable physician.....Mr. George Frederick Nash
Abraham Oaks, of the firm of Oaks & Co.....Mr. Chas. A. Smiley
Evelyn his wife.....Miss Isadore Rush
Sylvia, their daughter.....Miss Edna Wallace
Makepeace Frawley, of no particular firm.....Mr. Wm. Davidge
Margaret, his wife.....Mrs. Mary Myers
Maximilian, their son.....Mr. Albert Roberts
Wilkins, the doctor's boy.....Mr. Julian Reed
Mabel Douglas.....Miss Cecile James
Simeon Filbert, a friend from the club.....Mr. Roland Reed
